

The Community Resilience Hub and The Rodale Institute Proudly Announce

THE HEARTLAND RIFT PROGRAM

@Kansas Wesleyan University

Are you passionate about sustainable agriculture? Interested in starting your own small farm? Kansas Wesleyan University's Community Resilience Hub is launching the Rodale Institute Farmer Training (RIFT) in Salina, KS, with registration opening in fall 2024. This renowned program is designed for aspiring farmers and entrepreneurs committed to regenerative farming practices.

Our program offers a comprehensive curriculum tailored to equip participants with the knowledge and skills essential for success in farming while being good stewards of the land. Whether you're new to agriculture or are looking to transition to regenerative practices, our expert instructors and mentors will guide you every step of the way.

- Regenerative Farming Principles
 - ▶ Soil Health Management
 - ▶ Holistic Land Stewardship Techniques
 - ▶ Sustainable Food Systems
- Environmental Stewardship
 - ▶ Agroecology
 - ▶ Soil Science
 - ▶ Agricultural Humanities
- Hands-on Experiences
 - ▶ Pest Management
 - ▶ Planting & Harvesting
 - ▶ Animal Husbandry
- Business and Marketing Training
- Community Engagement and Networking

Together, let's cultivate a sustainable future for agriculture in the Central Plains!

Full-time, eight-month accredited program begins March 17, 2025

Apply today at www.kwu.edu/CRH/RIFT

SPACE IS LIMITED!

Community
Resilience Hub
Kansas Wesleyan University

KANSAS
WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

RODALE INSTITUTE™

Check out the CRH on the back

Questions? Contact Alexander Hurla, Regenerative Agriculture Farm Instructor, at Alexander.Hurla@kwu.edu or 785-833-4569.

EDUCATION

Community
Resilience Hub
Kansas Wesleyan University

ACTION

ADVOCACY

The Community Resilience Hub at Kansas Wesleyan is a convener of change agents, a connector to resources, and a leader in collaborative solutions for healthier, more resilient communities. Our work is driven by education, action and advocacy efforts to inspire and empower sustainable change on local, regional and global levels. A few of our current projects include:

- Collaborating with Social Work to launch the Environmental Justice minor
- Developing food security initiatives to expand healthy food access
- Leading education and research efforts in regenerative farming
- Hosting civil discourse training and discussions to build environmental literacy
- Creating a climate action plan on campus

If you are passionate about the environment, want to create a more sustainable campus, are interested in health and food equity, or want to advocate for policies that keep our land sustainable for future generations, connect with us!

Info.CRH@kwu.edu | WWW.KWU.EDU/CRH

CHANGE AGENTS
WANTED!